PARIS, Feb. 26.—Havas News Agency learned today martial law had been proclaimed in Tokyo. Proclamation of martial law was believed to indicate authorities were not confident the situation was under control.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—The Japanese embassy stated at 6.40 p.m. (11.40 a.m. M.S.T.) today that the newly-appointed acting premier of Japan, Fumio Goto, and all his cabinet had tendered their resignations.

Premier Okada and Two Ministers Known Killed By Rebels

Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press. TOKYO, Feb. 26.—Young officers of the army, who said they wished to remove corrupt influences from around the throne, assassinated Premier Okada and two other cabinet ministers today.

The government declared a state of emergency and sent out troops to the great cities of Tokyo and Osaka.

In addition to Premier Okada, they killed Admiral Viscount Makoto Saito, head keeper of the privy and former premier, and Gen. Jotaro Watanabe, chief of military education.

They also shot Koreyuki Takahashi, minister of finance, and Admiral Katsuo Sagami, chief of the Imperial court.

The assassinations were carried out in a snow storm which blanketed Tokyo within a few hours.

The conspirators struck before sunrise. They sent seven different points, surrounded the residences.

TOKYO PAPERS IGNORE REVOLT

TOKYO, Feb. 26.—Only four of Tokyo's many afternoon dailies published today the day's main events—a military coup and assassination of several foreign dignitaries.

Their pages were well filled with columns of foreign dispatches and pictures of the city blanketed with heavy snow.

The news and poor visibility prevented several steamers from entering Yokohama harbor, and the Trans-Atlantic liner, General Pershing and Tamsui Maru.

The brevity of this news dispatch from Tokyo, one of the first to be received after the military coup acted control in the Japanese capital, indicated the strict censorship enforced by military authorities.

Mention of the two steamers being detained to enter Yokohama harbor was an ironic commentary on the situation.

With the biggest news of the day centered in Tokyo, all mention of it was deleted from sheets.

The brief report totally carried no mention of whether the Tokyo dailies voluntarily failed to be damaged by fire. (Heating 27.)

WORLD'S EYES NOW CAST TO JAPAN'S LAND

China, Russia, Uneasy Over Delicate Balance of Peace, War

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT, Associated Press Staff Writer. The eyes of leaders of many nations turned anxiously today to Japan.

Seldom has the ancient east been viewed with such a balance of interest and concern.

The news from the island of Nippon came as a surprise to the world, for the Japanese military dictatorship, which has been in power since 1931, has been viewed with such a balance of interest and concern.

China, newly lifted into comparative calm with the hope of a Japanese-approved north China separatist movement, feared new Japanese moves.

The Soviet Union, at literal sword points for months with the puppet state of Manchukuo over a bitter boundary dispute, saw a new and serious threat to peace in the Far East.

Remote, ill-defined borders of Mongolia and Japan-sponsored Manchukuo have been repeated claims of "invasion" of their respective territories.

This dispute—guaranteed, Soviet Union.

JAPAN PRINCE AMONG SLAIN

SHANGHAI, Feb. 26.—Prince Saito, last remaining elder statesman of Japan and privy councillor to the Emperor, was reported to be among those slain by rebellious officials.

The person of Prince Saito was reported to be in Japan more than that of the Emperor.

The person of Prince Saito was reported to be in Japan more than that of the Emperor.

MONGOLIA S GRIEVING

TOKYO, Feb. 26.—Manchukuo last night again warned the outer Mongolia government that it would take "appropriate measures" if Mongolia refused to immediately withdraw from the disputed frontier near Lake Baikal.

The threat was telegraphed to Urumqi, Mongolian capital, and to the Japanese Embassy in Urumqi.

Manchukuo also demanded that Mongolia cease its "provocative activities" on the border and requested the immediate initiation of diplomatic relations between the two countries.

DEATH BLOW TO HOPES OF JAP ALLIANCE

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Naval conference circles regarded the reported Japanese military coup today as a triumph for the big navy, which is determined to end the Washington treaty.

Naval sources here expressed belief the coup would bring the death blow for any hopes Japan might return to the conference.

Efforts of the Associated Press to get a telephone message from Tokyo proved in vain. Inquiries met with the reply "the line is closed."

Paris and Moscow were also informed of the situation, and Berlin—the only other European capital to have a direct telephone link to Tokyo—was without information.

"Coding" The Consumer

An Editorial

Whatever may be the immediate, first object aimed at, the end of coding is the fixing of prices, to the advantage of the merchant and the disadvantage of the consumer.

To say one merchant may not sell any class or kind of goods at any time for a price lower than his rivals want him to demand for it, is to say the consumer shall get less goods for the money he has to pay with which to supply the needs of his family and himself.

To prohibit bargain sales or sales "leaders" is to destroy to that degree the purchasing power of the consuming public. What is worse, it is a precedent and excuse for curtailing that purchasing power at all times and in respect to all classes of goods.

Whatever form of language may be employed to persuade the consumer that this first step in price-fixing would be harmless to him, there is no sufficient reason for coding or wanting codes except to ultimately fix prices of all goods at all times, and thus permanently reduce the amount of food, clothing and other necessities the consumer can get for his money.

That is what coding has resulted in, when and where it has been submitted to. A combine is the same thing and works the same, whether it operates in defiance of law or by consent of the legislature. Other than all-round price-fixing, and the all-round curtailment of purchasing power, there is no purpose in it and no achievement possible to it important enough to make interested parties clamor for the imposition of codes upon the public.

Codes simply mean that "you get less for your money."

ARMS PLANTS NOW RUNNING FULL CAPACITY

Money for Vast Expenditures to Come From Savings of People

By GEORGE HAMILTON, Canadian Press Staff Writer. LONDON, Feb. 26.—Money for the £300,000,000 (£150,000,000) British defense program will come largely from the savings of the people.

The defense department's savings committee may make great demands on the savings of the people in the years that lie ahead, said A. Duff Cooper, secretary for war, in a speech on Parliament today.

"It is not only wisdom in saving that is required, but also wisdom in knowing how to spend."

"I am one who is principally concerned with the government's expenditure. It must always be borne philosophically by wise economists who realize that the highest ideal is to be carried out in a state safely defended against barbarians."

The chief expenditures will be made over a period of three or four years, and the money will be raised from time to time as required.

The armament work will provide employment in many of the distressed areas. Vickers Armstrong's, for example, will employ 27,000 people compared with 30,000 a year ago. The plant has been or is being made thoroughly up-to-date, declared Sir John Craxford, Vickers Armstrong's, speaking at Barrow.

He felt convinced we shall be able to undertake that part of the armament program that falls on us in a well ordered manner and with out panic.

Romanuk filed a statement of claim against one, Harry Rubin, on Mrs. Kowal's behalf in 1934. Mrs. Kowal, however, quarreled with her lawyer and took her business out of his hands, turning it over to the law firm of Short and Cross.

It so happened that Short and Cross were solicitors for Rubin. Not wishing to have both sides of the case in their own hands, they turned over Rubin's affairs to Mr. Romanuk, who promptly filed a statement of defense answering his own statement of claim in the same law firm.

Mr. Romanuk, on the stand before Mr. Justice Ives Tuesday afternoon, quoted from Tuesday's "Law of England" to justify his action. He also claimed that the "brother of the law society" had advised him that he was within his rights.

"Even if Lord Halsbury says it's all right I still believe that it's wrong," commented Mr. Justice Ives, who appeared mild and incredulous alternately as the story was told to him.

"...I was," she said. "That's my luck! To have you to myself I don't see enough of you, Kay?"

Kay smiled; but she came direct-ly to the point. "You've both been good to me," she explained. "I wanted you to know what Tom de-was." She choked. "He didn't mind at all."

Dr. Dakin seemed to consider this with complete gravity. He said at last: "I'm not sure Bob would be wise to marry Priscilla. I used to

"I think well of the idea; but she is cold, and stern, and—she says bitter things." He hesitated; asked me most appealingly: "Why must you leave her? Just because you're fond of him?"

Kay tried to put her feeling into words: "Why—I've always been able to be calm with him, and—sort of detached." Her lips twisted in a grimace. "I don't know what that is, terribly. And—just being with him now would hurt me so. I can't, Dr. Bob."

And she said: "Bob has never—"

[illegible]

I never thought of that positivity," Kay admitted. "I'll all of it." She hesitated, then on: "It was a night when I was with Priscilla. And now I can see that she is a woman who is not only occasionally, through her social contacts, and she brings him luck. . . . of she loves her."

"Is that so?" he asked in an interested tone. "Is that so? Does he?"

"Oh, yes," said Kay.

"Continue," So I'm going to see Dr. Dekin. Now my confusion.

"Just—don't think hardy of me!" He said, smiling: "I can under- stand the feelings of Ray." She stood straight. "Thank you," she said, and extended her hand. He gripped it firmly. "I am glad to see you with a sense of escape," she reached the stairs outside.

Ray has made a real drama about Bob. What will life mean to him now? Will he be able to forget him and live in Carvel contentedly? Or will he have to face tomorrow's absorbing in- stallment.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

"JANET Gaynor had a single word to advise to effect, and it was to 'Don't'." But if she were asked to deliver a little lecture on the subject, she said, "If you must come to Hollywood, be different."

Reinstatement Of Stan Clark Is Requested

Efforts of members of the Northern Alberta Game and Fish Protective league to have the provincial government reinstate Stanley H. Clark, dismissed game commissioner, have not yet met with any success it was announced by L. E. Wine vice-president Tuesday night.

Mr. Wine told a meeting of the organization that a committee had interviewed Hon. W. N. Chant, minister of agriculture, but no action had been given for the dismissal of Mr. Clark. He said the game post for four years.

The committee also interviewed Mr. C. C. Ross, minister of lands and mines, asking that the game branch be included in his portfolio from now on. Mr. Ross promised to give the matter his consideration.

Put on a case. Stand out from the crowd. If you have to put on a case, I had asked Mrs. Gaynor if she were the only star to have come up through Central Casting Bureau and she knows the names of all of them.

She said yes, she guessed she was, technically, but that even the extra roles through Central Casting, and her attention were not obtained through Central Casting.

"And today," she continued, "it seems that just ordinary extra don't have a chance. New people have to have dramatic training, whether in dramatic schools or in the theatre groups, or stock, or Broadway."

"Hollywood isn't so heartless, really. You hear a lot about the people coming here and not getting an opportunity. But there are 10 times as many who do get a chance and then fail to make good."
